

SERVICE LIMITATIONS

V. SERVICE LIMITATIONS OF THE EXISTING LIBRARY AND SCHOOL DISTRICT LIBRARIES

There is no existing public library within the Cordelia service area. Community members who use a library use the Fairfield Library located at Fairfield Civic Center some eight to ten miles to the east in central Fairfield.

Service is limited at each of the school libraries that serve the elementary and middle schools in the community. Each library is open from two to three hours per day at the elementary schools and five hours per day at the middle school. Each library is staffed only one day per week by a library media teacher. Each school's faculty has very limited access to the library media teacher to collaboratively plan activities and lessons for their students.

The high school library is open throughout the school day, five days per week. No evening or weekend hours are available, however. Students must travel to central Fairfield to use library materials.
